

* may involve user needing to set up a database  may involve creating an API that returns random links?? how currently I save the pictures in the source file, and will call random() method to return a random number (index) to return a card file path at that index.

not the best way because it's troublesome and may take up a lot of space and decrease speed of running program